SWINGING THE SOLID SOUTH FOR SMITH

U. S. SENATOR COPELAND CLAIMS GOVERNOR CAN WIN

If He Can Control the Vote of the Solid South, So He Is Urging the Politicians of Dixie to Support New York's Native Son—The Democratic Chessboard Has a Stalemate On Its Hands and Can't Make a Move Until They Can Get Rid of Him.

Governor Al Smith of New York has "won the west" Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, declared at Washington Wednesday upon his return from a trip thru that section.

Appealing to the "generosity and sense of fairness of the south," Senator Copeland asserted in a long statement that "all that is now essential to the nomination of Governor Smith as the Democratic candidate and his election as president is for the south, the cradle of Democracy to support his candidacy."

On the basis of his western canvass, the New York senator insisted Governor Smith will go into the convention next year with the delegations from California, Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. Most of the delegations, he added, from the Mississippi Valley, including Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Michigan Wisconsin and Illinois will be for Smith.

"Add to these," his statement continued, "the votes from New England and the Atlantic Coast states and it becomes apparent that Governor Smith will have a majority in the convention before we come to consider the vote from the 'solid south.'"

"The opposition to Governor Smith in the so-called 'solid South,' I am convinced, is not as strong as it has been represented. Some of the most substantial citizens of Dixieland have told me that they are convinced that Governor Smith is the only Democrat who can win next year and that the entire solid south will vote for him in the elections. It seems a pity that the south should be prepared to vote for a man in the election and yet refuse him the nomination by which he could win the election."

"I cannot believe the matter of religion would consolidate the south against the sterling manhood and Democracy of Governor Smith. Surely that great section would not flaunt the wishes of a larger group of electoral votes than the south possesses."

Pointing out that he was a Mason and a Methodist, Senator Copeland testified to the "character, honesty, integrity, purity of life, intelligence, temperance and reliability" of Governor Smith, "a man every way qualified for the highest office within the gift of the American people."

Senator Copeland said the country needs a change in Washington, declaring "the selfish interests are becoming entrenched as they always have been entrenched when the people have grown careless."

west, "which will assume the proportions of a revolution" should the Republican party nominate a man whose views on the McNary-Haugen bill are the same as those of President Coolidge, was predicted by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, in an interview at Wisconsin Wednesday.

Senator Walsh, who is classified politically as a dry, believes that neither party "is likely or ought to make a declaration which will be characterized as a wet or dry plank" should an outstanding wet be nominated on either ticket.

Mr. Walsh believed it would be "bone-head politics for his supporters to force a wet plank into the party platform." As for a dry plank, Senator Walsh believes "the dries ought to be satisfied with conditions as they are, without any further declaration, in view of the fact that the dries in congress outnumber the wets six to one."

Senator Walsh is on his way to Washington.

CUTE KITTENS CIPHER READ BY DAUGHTER

Of Warden Thomas—Message Meant That "The Gang Had Made a Good Haul."

Miss Amanda Thomas, daughter and aide to the warden, passed the ultimate test in deciphering a code message and unofficially became the prison's expert.

"The Kittens are Cute." A letter from the wife of a convict said.

"That's something her husband should not know," Miss Thomas thought as she scanned the mail.

It was the third time within several weeks the wife had mentioned the cuteness of kitten who by all rules of nature should be cats by now. It so happened that each time mention was made of the attractiveness of the kittens, a robbery had been staged in the town from which the letters were written.

"She means by that phrase 'the gang made a good haul' commented Miss Thomas, as the letter was dropped in a prison waste basket.

Several other convicts have had mail stopped because of the curiousness of the warden's daughter.

Tried in Connection With
Death of George Pryor,
Roxabel.

Mose Miller, Circleville negro, went on trial Tuesday morning before the October term, petit jury, on an indictment charging him with manslaughter in connection with the death of George Pryor, Roxabel negro, on last Easter Sunday, April 17.

The state's evidence was not completed at 11 a. m. and the jury was dismissed until 1 p. m. In his opening argument Prosecutor W. M. McKenzie stated that the state expected the evidence to show that Mose Miller was in Roxabel on the Sunday in question, was intoxicated and started driving to Frankfort on his way home. The state evidence would show, McKenzie said, that on the way to Frankfort, Miller struck Pryor, but did not stop until he reached Frankfort. Here he discharged John Baker, a passenger, and warned him to keep still about the incident.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

Black Crepe Elizabeth for Chic Fall Ensemble

A charming costume for fall is this one worn by Yvonne Taylor, the "movie" star. The suit is of black crepe Elizabeth. The coat boasts a long V-neck line and fastens in front with a long bow of self material. The skirt is plaited. With this suit is worn a pert little black hat of felt and gros grain ribbon and a silver fox scarf.

Three Ways of Applying Cross-Stitch Embroidery

"Probably the oldest, and certainly one of the simplest and most fascinating of all decorative stitcheries, is cross-stitch," writes Ethelyn J. Guppy in Needlecraft Magazine. "Of course the name tells one exactly what it is—two diagonal threads, one laid to the right, the other to the left, intersecting at the center to form a cross, but there are at least three methods of applying cross-stitch embroidery. Originally it was worked by counting the threads of the material, and this probably gives the most satisfactory appearance; the old-time samplers were done in this manner. Canvas, scrim, linen or any material which has a regular square weave, that is the same number of threads to the inch, both ways, is selected for the foundation. Any cross-stitch pattern working chart, or a design made on checked paper to suit one's individual taste or requirement chosen and "taken off" in cross-stitch—each square or space of the pattern representing a cross on the linen, and the different symbols in the squares standing for certain colors.

"Then there is the stamped cross-stitch for those who prefer to work by such a pattern rather than by the preceding method.

"Finally, there is the handsome and dignified style of cross-stitch which covers the entire surface, leaving no canvas to show. For this a strong square-mesh canvas is chosen, and a rather heavy yarn in three colors—a brilliant Chinese red for the check lines and centers, tan for the flower forms and deep old blue for the background. Beautiful chair-cushions, chair-backs, floor-cushions, footstool-covers, rugs, and so on to the end of a delightful chapter, are made in this manner. Any cross-stitch pattern may be worked out on the canvas in any desired color of shades, and the background filled in with another color with most happy results; and if a very heavy yarn is used, it is not necessary to make crosses."

Two-Piece Costume Is Still Among Favorites

One cannot get away from the two-piece costumes in the fashions—but who wants to? The jumpers worn with the heavy crepe de chine skirts are most eccentrically decorated. They usually have a pair of fish or a pair of game cocks or an odd geometrical design applied on them in a contrasting color. Capes are frequently worn with those costumes and usually are the same color as the blouse and lined with the same color as the skirt. The skirts are plain in the back and have a heavy full circular godet in front.

Sweaters That Glitter on Fall Fashion List

Even sweaters have to glitter nowadays. The newest of these garments are ornamental rather than practical, from a sports or warmth standpoint. They are of metallic jersey and usually of gold, striped horizontally with the same color as the skirt over which they are worn. Blue and green are the favored skirt colorings at the moment.

Furs Are One-sided

A one-sided point of view is manifested by the fur treatments on the latest imported coats, which have one-side fur collars and single panels that are only placed at one side of the garment.

Odd Wedding Ceremony

One of the most curious wedding ceremonies in the world is that in vogue among a certain race of dwarfs inhabiting the Andaman islands. The two parties climb two flexible trees growing near each other, which an old man then makes bend toward each other. When the head of the man touches that of the girl, they are legally married.

Surroundings Counted

William had bought a little playmate home from school. After he left, William's mother thought to improve the chance and remarked: "He was a very polite little boy. I think he was more of a gentleman than you are sometimes." "Of course he was polite," was the answer. "He was in a strange house. I am polite, too, when I am away from home."

MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL GETS UNDER WAY TUESDAY

Tried in Connection With
Death of George Pryor,
Roxabel.

Mose Miller, Circleville-negro, went on trial Tuesday morning before the October term, petit jury, on an indictment charging him with manslaughter in connection with the death of George Pryor, Roxabel negro, on last Easter Sunday, April 17.

The state's evidence was not completed at 11 a. m. and the jury was dismissed until 1 p. m. In his opening argument Prosecutor W. M. McKenzie stated that the state expected the evidence to show that Mose Miller was in Roxabel on the Sunday in question, was intoxicated and started driving to Frankfort on his way home. The state evidence would show, McKenzie said, that on the way to Frankfort, Miller struck Pryor, but did not stop until he reached Frankfort. Here he discharged John Baker, a passenger, and warned him to keep still about the incident.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

Sterilizing by Oxygen

Bacteria can be killed by oxygen— if the pressure is made strong enough. By means of this discovery, Dr. L. R. Cleveland of the Harvard University Medical school has devised a method for sterilizing and preserving fruit juices without injuring their delicate flavors. He uses ordinary commercial oxygen gas, sold in cylinders for welding and other industrial purposes, and he says he can kill all germs and other micro-organisms, by using this oxygen, in from twelve hours to five days.

"Power" Enough

The negro teacher was tall and powerful of frame, and as he preached he whacked the pulpit cushion with hammer-like strokes of his massive fist. But his preaching consisted simply of the repetition of one phrase: "May the Lord give us more power. More power, O Lord!"

At last a small negro got up in the back of the church, a disgusted expression on his face, and called out in piping tones:

"What you-all need, Bruddah Robbins, is not moah power, but moah ideas!"

Bird Has Aluminum Leg

A crane with an artificial leg is an oddity in the zoological gardens of Lepsic. One bitterly cold day last winter the crane escaped. When picked up after a long chase, it was found that both its legs were frozen. Soon after, when the bird alighted from a flight, one leg snapped clear off. The crane was taken to the birds' hospital and the stump healed quickly. Then some one got the notion to try to fit the patient with an artificial leg, made of aluminum. This was done, and the crane uses its new leg with perfect ease.

BURNING SHIP

Fire Was Battled 48 Hours By Crew and Passengers.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—The steamer, Jacinto, arrived in port 12 hours late today, fire raging in her hold and passengers and crew exhausted from a 48-hour battle with the flames.

Early Sunday fire was discovered in the hold. Throughout the day the crew battled with the flames and as evening came heavy seas developed. Captain Avery reported a 70-mile-an-hour gale raged during the night and huge waves broke over the prow.

When the crew began to show the strain of the battle against the fire, passengers relieved them, he said.

Age of Progress

The history of the world consists mostly in the memory of those ages, quite few in number, in which some part of the world has risen above itself and burst into flower or fruit. We ourselves happen to live in the midst of possibly in the close of one such period. More change has probably taken place in daily life, in ideas, and in the general aspect of the earth during the last century than during any other four centuries since the Christian era; and this fact has tended to make us look on rapid progress as a normal condition of the human race, which it has never been.

SALES RECORDSIncrease Averages 4,000 Cars
a Month over Same
Period in 1926Flint, Mich., Oct. 15—Buick sales
since the introduction of new models in July have shattered all records in Buick
history, C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Company, announced today. The July, August and September total this year is 82,955
cars, as compared with 70,941 cars sold
during the corresponding period in 1926."The average monthly increase during the last three months, over the corresponding period in 1926, amounts to more than 4,000 cars," said Mr.
Churchill. "This represents an average increase of 1,000 cars a week, or considerably better than 100 a day.""When it is recalled that these are retail sales figures, and not mere production totals, such a record seems to us highly significant. It means that the instantaneous public reception of the new Buicks was not a mere flash in the pan, but rather the forerunner of a sustained demand for Buicks, all over the country, based on the recognition that here was such style, comfort and performance as best filled the public's conception of value in a motor car."COMIC PARADE.The Comic and Character parade rock squirrel is a resident of the open forests of the western mountain ranges, says Nature Magazine, and is attracted also to the sites of old saw-mills and abandoned mining camps. It ranges from quite moderate elevations in Oregon to an altitude of 11,000 feet in some of the southern mountains.Quarries Long in UseThe sandstone or Virginia freestone, used in building the White House, the capitol, the patent office and the Lee mansion at Arlington came from the Aquila Creek quarries, about 40 miles below Washington. These quarries were opened in 1685, and still furnish sandstone for many important buildings.Costly OrchidsNearly all the orchids found in Burma can be grown with a little care

and attention in private gardens.
There is one exception, a sweet-smelling species called tazin by the Burmese, and which is usually brought to market in Christmas week in Rangoon. It only seems to flower in the most malarious and least frequented localities, and at a time of the year which is the tiger's mating season, and when they are most dangerous to human beings. It is in great demand by Burmese, and sells for its weight in silver.Truth's Big AdvantageOne good thing about telling the truth is, that you don't have to remember what you say.What may the engaged man give to his fiancée?THE WHAT, WHEN AND HOW
OF REMEMBRANCES...DON'T
GUESS—ASK YOUR JEWELERAn engagement ring, of course!
But what else, during the engagement period may an engaged man give to his fiancée
—with propriety
and good taste?This is one of the many puzzling problems in the delicate and intricate art of proper gift-giving.Certain kinds of gifts, including all forms of jewelry,
the engaged man
may bestow upon
his bride-to-be as freely as his means
and wishessanction.
Other types of gifts,
such as wearing apparel or furniture, he cannot give atall, without breaching the canons of approved social practice
and good form.But there are other equally perplexing questions in the etquette of gift-giving. What, for example, should a bridegroom
give to his best man and ushers
before the wedding ceremony?And the bride to her brides-maids? What are the proper anniversary
and seasonal gifts
to friends and relatives?When you have a delicate gift problem to solve—don't guess—go to an expert for authoritative counsel. See your jeweler. He is past-master in the science of gift selection. His consultations are free.There is no finer gift than an

SALES RECORDSIncrease Averages 4,000 Cars
a Month over Same
Period in 1926Flint, Mich., Oct. 15.—Buick sales
since the introduction of new models in July have shattered all records in Buick
history. C. W. Churchill, general sales
manager of the Buick Motor Company,
announced today, The July, August and September total this year is $2,955
cars, as compared with 70,941 cars sold
during the corresponding period in 1926."The average monthly increase
during the last three months, over the
corresponding period in 1926, amounts
to more than 4,000 cars," said Mr.
Churchill. "This represents an average
increase of 1,000 cars a week, or considerably better than 100 a day.""When it is recalled that these are retail sales figures, and not mere production totals, such a record seems
to us highly significant. It means that the instantaneous public reception of the new Buicks was not a mere flash in
the pan, but rather the forerunner of a sustained demand for Buicks, all over
the country, based on the recognition
that here was such style, comfort and
performance as best filled the public's conception of value in a motor car."

used in building the White House, the

and attention in private gardens.
There is one exception, a sweet-smelling species called tazin by the Bur-

market in Christmas week in Ran-

most malarious and least frequented
localities, and at a time of the year

But what else, during the
engagement period may an engaged man give to his fiancée
—with propriety

many puzzling prob-

and intricate art of
proper gift-giving.Certain kinds of gifts, including all
forms of jewelry,
the engaged man
may bestow upon
his bride-to-be as freely as his means

Other types of gifts,
such as wearing apparel or
furniture, he cannot give atall, without breaching the canons of approved social practice
and good form.But there are other equally perplexing questions in the etiquette of gift-giving. What, for example, should a bridegroom
give to his best man and ushers
before the wedding ceremony?And the bride to her brides-maids?
What are the proper anniversary
and seasonal gifts
to friends and rela-

The Cinderella Affair
By ADALAIDE D. HUFF
(Copyright.)

WILL DURHAM'S face lit up as he recognized the familiar, unknown handwriting on the envelope in his hand. Dropping into a chair on the deep comfortable porch of the Westway club Durham ripped open the flap and hastily scanned the contents. It was much like the others he had received from the same person, whoever she might be.
"Dear Mr. Durham:
"Here I come on my daily visit. I like to be there to welcome you to your club in the evenings because I feel that it is then that a man without a home is the loneliest.
"I saw you yesterday, standing on the corner of Eighth and Market, and it seemed to me that you were looking well. I believe your business projects are being crowned with success. There was an alertness in the expression of your eye that made me glad all over. You seemed full of the zest of life from the tip of your well-shod feet right up to the crown of your well-groomed head. You reeked of success! Am I right? Aren't things going better at the office and aren't you happier than you have been in ages? Now, tell me, isn't it true?
"Each day I think of you with such sympathy and interest and when I see you and you look happy I am happy for a long time afterward. Sometimes, when I see you I long to put out a hand and give you a little friendly pat and tell you that I know everything will be all right in the end and that I believe in your innocence. I long to do lots of things just to comfort you. I long to let you know who I am, but I'm afraid you might think I was flirting with you when I really am not. That is the only horrid thing about good-looking eligible men; they can't help thinking girls are flirting with them.
"This is enough for now. I'll write you again tomorrow."
That was all. No signature. No date. No address.
Certainly one who was intelligent and observant, else how could she tell by his face that things were going better at the office? Yet, she was exactly right. What a dear little heart she must have to write such letters. What did she look like, he wondered, and how old was she and would she, could she ever learn to love him after his having been implicated in the Baker Brothers' disgrace? Innocent though he was there had been many who had suspected him of being guilty. There had been the disgrace of the long grilling trial, and that the whole thing had injured his business reputation he realized only too fully.
He sat on in the falling darkness smoking and thinking, but his thoughts traveled over the same route and came to the same conclusion which was really no conclusion at all.
The following week brought more letters as puzzling as ever. At last, because he felt that he had to talk of it to some one he took his private secretary into his confidence and told her about it. He tried to make his voice sound casual, but he betrayed his eager interest by the nervous way he toyed with the things on his desk.
"It's terribly interesting," said little Miss Harmon, when he had finished. "Sort of a Cinderella affair, only it's letters instead of a slipper."
"Exactly," he answered warmly.
"If I could only find her! How would you go about it? I haven't done a thing because I couldn't think of a thing to do."
"You might not like her if you met her," said Betty Harmon thoughtfully, glancing at him with soft brown eyes.
"I would. I know I would!" he answered fervently. "She's a little saint. I don't care if she's as ugly as mud. She has a heart of gold and that's what makes life worth living."
"I know you think I'm a fool to talk like that," he apologized hastily.
"I do not!" said Betty emphatically. He left the office early that afternoon and went out to the club to play golf. Betty received several telephone calls for him after he went away and as usual left notes about them on his desk so that he would be sure to see them in the morning as soon as he came down. Something that he had forgotten made him return to the office that evening and a few moments later he was rushing up the front steps of the Harmon home.
"What's the matter?" asked Betty, leaving her seat in the porch swing and going to meet him.
Without a word he swept her into his arms, and she felt him kissing her hair.
"How blind I've been! Why didn't I think of it sooner?" he laughed happily. "My little Cinderella."
When I saw those notes on my desk written in the familiar hand that has haunted me for weeks. . . . What a clever little way you had of telling me."
"I thought that was a good way to break the news gently, but it doesn't look a bit like my every-day writing, does it?" she laughed up at him.
"Not a bit. . . . but no wonder you knew when my business was going better," he said.
"It didn't take much guessing," she confessed, "when I kept the books myself, but I thought that would throw you off the track."
"It certainly did!" he agreed happily; "but you'll never fool me again!"

TEACH YOUNG
HOW TO TOOT

Goldman, Great Band Leader, Says Music Will Take Care of Youth.

Edwin F. Goldman.

Observer in these words:
"Of late, much attention has been directed toward the younger generation. They have been called irresponsible, heedless of tradition and convention, headstrong, heartless, almost everything under the sun. Calamity howlers say crime is on the increase, murder is becoming a pastime, falls are being filled with youths. What are we coming to? To all of which I should like to say that if we are mindful of music in the training of our youth, we need not have such grave fears as to the future of America.
"Fathers, mothers, teachers can give their boys and girls no greater gift for the morrow than a knowledge and appreciation of music, the ability to make music, for the greatest joy comes in making your own, no matter how crude it may be. Every child should be given the opportunity to learn some instrument. A boys' band offers all the lively elements of interest as does baseball. It is teamwork that counts in both instances and the contest idea offers as keen rivalry as do two opposing ball teams. Why is this such a nation for baseball? Because all the kids play the game and when they grow up still retain an interest in seeing it played. In the same manner we can make this the greatest musical nation by teaching as many youngsters as possible to play in a band or orchestra. And this will be one of the most wholesome, enriching and lasting influences that can enter their lives.
"A boy has a superabundance of energy which must be directed into proper channels. The boy who plays in the band has an outlet for this overabundant vitality. He comes under ordered law, and develops concentration, alertness, perception and teamwork as a result. While thus occupied, he will not get into mischief. Then, too, there is a real future in music financially as well as artistically."
"We Don't Smoke," Slogan of This School Band
Elkhart, Ind.—"We do not smoke!" That's the slogan given by the public to the 40 members of the Houston (Texas) High School band. Huge banners bearing this legend attracted unusual interest in the band as it marched down the streets of Fostoria, Ohio, last year during the National High School Band contest, reports the Conn Music Center.
"None of my boys smokes," explains Victor Alessandro, the band leader. "Every time they were offered cigars and cigarettes, they said: 'We do not smoke.' The line stuck. It's their slogan now. We have no rule against it; but we just don't smoke. We have told them that smoking is injurious to their lungs, that it hinders the development of the mind and also of the muscles of the lips. We've impressed upon them that while they're in school, at least, they should not smoke, and the boys seem to be mindful of our advice.

AMUSEMENTS

A look into the heart of a child—a glimpse of the mother-instinct of every woman—and, beyond this, as a gigantic background, the surge and thunder of battle as civilization presses Westward—these are the elements that make "The Bugle Call" great.
The new picture is now playing at the Metropolitan theater and is a great vehicle for Jackie Coogan—but it is more than that. It is the triumph of a Jackie Coogan new to the screen—Jackie Coogan in a new role that establishes him as not only one of the greatest child actors in history but as one of the greatest actors regardless of age or time.
The story is laid in the thunderous days when the United States cavalry hammered back the Indian hordes from the Bozeman trail in 1870 to open a gateway to the West for settlers; one of the historic struggles to aid the onset of civilization. Jackie plays a bugle boy—son of a cavalry captain, on the frontier.
His adventure, in which his bugle saves the fort, is a thrill; the Indian battles are spectacular settings for the story—but after all—the real story is not in the mighty march of civilization.
It is the story of the heart of a motherless child—and a stepmother who tried to win his love and supplant the mother who lived in his memory. This is a poignant touch to the story that Jackie handles with consummate skill—in fact, in which the achieves one of the acting triumphs of screen history.
Claire Windsor is charming as the unwelcome stepmother—and one can't blame Jackie for capitulating in the end—and Herbert Rawlinson gives a splendidly balanced performance as the father. Harry Todd, Bodil Rosing and Sarah Padden add a deal of clever character work. Edward Sedgwick directed the picture with his usual skill, and others in the cast worthy of mention are Johnny Mack-Brown, Nelson MacDowell, Russ Powell, Tom O'Brien as the corporal, and Sam Borg, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gave the new play a magnificent production scenically and technically.

"I do not!" said Betty emphatically. He left the office early that afternoon and went out to the club to play golf. Betty received several telephone calls for him after he went away and as usual left notes about them on his desk so that he would be sure to see them in the morning as soon as he came down. Something that he had forgotten made him return to the office that evening and a few moments later he was rushing up the front steps of the Harmon home.

"What's the matter?" asked Betty, leaving her seat in the porch swing and going to meet him.

Without a word he swept her into his arms, and she felt him kissing her hair.

"How blind I've been! Why didn't I think of it sooner?" he laughed happily. "My little Cinderella."

When I saw those notes on my desk written in the familiar hand that has haunted me for weeks. . . . What a clever little way you had of telling me."

"I thought that was a good way to break the news gently, but it doesn't look a bit like my every-day writing, does it?" she laughed up at him.

"Not a bit. . . . but no wonder you knew when my business was going better," he said.

"It didn't take much guessing," she confessed, "when I kept the books myself, but I thought that would throw you off the track."

"It certainly did!" he agreed happily; "but you'll never fool me again!"

TEACH YOUNG HOW TO TOOT

Goldman, Great Band Leader, Says Music Will Take Care of Youth.

"If we teach the young idea to toot, we need not be unduly concerned about the future of America."

Edwin Frank Goldman, leader of one of America's foremost concert bands, gives this as his answer to the cry that our young people are "going to the dogs," says the Conn Music Center, and he does it in the Musical Observer in these words:

"Of late, much attention has been directed toward the younger generation. They have been called irresponsible, heedless of tradition and convention, headstrong, heartless, almost everything under the sun. Calamity howlers say crime is on the increase, murder is becoming a pastime, jails are being filled with youths. What are we coming to? To all of which I should like to say that if we are mindful of music in the training of our youth, we need not have such grave fears as to the future of America.

"Fathers, mothers, teachers can give their boys and girls no greater gift for the morrow than a knowledge and appreciation of music, the ability to make music, for the greatest joy comes in making your own, no matter how crude it may be. Every child should be given the opportunity to learn some instrument. A boy's band offers all the lively elements of interest as does baseball. It is teamwork that counts in both instances and the contest idea offers as keen rivalry as do two opposing ball teams. Why is this such a nation for baseball? Because all the kids play the game and when they grow up still retain an interest in seeing it played. In the same manner we can make this the greatest musical nation by teaching as many youngsters as possible to play in a band or orchestra. And this will be one of the most wholesome, enriching and lasting influences that can enter their lives.

"A boy has a superabundance of energy which must be directed into proper channels. The boy who plays in the band has an outlet for this overflowing vitality. He comes under ordered law, and develops concentration, alertness, perception and teamwork as a result. While thus occupied, he will not get into mischief. Then, too, there is a real future in music financially as well as artistically."

"We Don't Smoke," Slogan of This School Band

Elkhart, Ind.—"We do not smoke!" That's the slogan given by the public to the 40 members of the Houston (Texas) High School band. Huge banners bearing this legend attracted unusual interest in the band as it marched down the streets of Postoria, Ohio, last year during the National High School Band contest, reports the Conn Music Center.

"None of my boys smokes," explains Victor Alessandro, the band leader. "Every time they were offered cigars and cigarettes, they said: 'We do not smoke.' The line stuck. It's their slogan now. We have no rule against it; but we just don't smoke. We have told them that smoking is injurious to their lungs, that it hinders the development of the mind and also of the muscles of the lips. We've impressed upon them that while they're in school, at least, they should not smoke, and the boys seem to be mindful of our advice.

Music Is No Longer a Luxury, Claims Smith

Music as a necessity vs. music as a luxury is what distinguishes the Twentieth century from preceding ages, according to the Conn Music Center. This changed public attitude toward music is held by music authorities to be responsible for the tremendous progress of musical education in recent years.

"Musical education is going forward by leaps and bounds," says Carl Smith, a leading Middle West music authority. "Study on some band instruments has increased 500 per cent in the last three years. The high school band and orchestra have become as indispensable as football and basketball teams."

An important increase of musical education in the schools, according to Mr. Smith, is the modern high school, "equipped with up-to-date opera houses, the latest effects in stage lighting, and the last word in acoustic provision." It is natural, he says, that such fine auditoriums, furnished rent-free by the taxpayers, should be used in many new and useful ways.

AMUSEMENTS

A look into the heart of a child—a glimpse of the mother-instinct of every woman—and, beyond this, as a gigantic background, the surge and thunder of battle as civilization presses Westward—these are the elements that make "The Bugle Call" great.

The new picture is now playing at the Metropolitan theater and is a great vehicle for Jackie Coogan—but it is more than that. It is the triumph of a Jackie Coogan new to the screen—Jackie Coogan in a new role that establishes him as not only one of the greatest child actors in history but as one of the greatest actors regardless of age or time.

The story is laid in the thunderous days when the United States cavalry hammered back the Indian hordes from the Bozeman trail in 1870 to open a gateway to the West for settlers; one of the historic struggles to aid the onset of civilization. Jackie plays a bugle boy—son of a cavalry captain, on the frontier.

His adventure, in which his bugle saves the fort, is a thrill; the Indian battles are spectacular settings for the story—but after all—the real story is not in the mighty march of civilization.

It is the story of the heart of a motherless child—and a stepmother who tried to win his love and supplant the mother who lived in his memory. This is a poignant touch to the story that Jackie handles with consummate skill—in fact, in which the achieves one of the acting triumphs of screen history.

Claire Windsor is charming as the unwelcome stepmother—and one can't blame Jackie for capitulating in the end—and Herbert Rawlinson gives a splendidly balanced performance as the father. Harry Todd, Bodil Rosing and Sarah Padden add a deal of clever character work. Edward Sedgwick directed the picture with his usual skill, and others in the cast worthy of mention are Johnny Mack-Brown, Nelson MacDowell, Russ Powell, Tom O'Brien as the corporal, and Sam Borg, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gave the new play a magnificent production scenically and technically.

OHIO CORN PROSPECTS ARE ON THE INCREASE

Columbus, Oct. 18.—Ohio corn prospects increased 8,000,000 bushels during September and the greater part of the crop will mature without frost damage, C. J. West, federal agricultural statistician for Ohio announced today.

The probable Ohio crop is now estimated at 106,749,000 bushels which is three-fourths as large as last year's crop, but is much larger than that which would have been harvested without the favorable weather enjoyed since August, West said.

As a whole the corn belt crop will be larger than a year ago, the statistician said.

Origin of Word Canada

The word Canada is derived from the Huron-Iroquois Indian word "Kanata," meaning a collection of huts. In Jacques Cartier's time the territory on the north side of the St. Lawrence river, from Hochelaga, now a suburb of Montreal, to the gulf, was apparently divided into three districts—Hochelaga, Canada and Saguenay. It is here for the first time we meet the name now borne by the dominion.

Lesson for October 23

THE CALL OF THE PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 19:19, 20; Amos 7:10-15; Isa. 6:1-3.
GOLDEN TEXT—I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I, send me.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Chooses His Helpers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Call to Service.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Spirit of the Volunteer.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Need for Modern Prophets.

A prophet is one who speaks forth the message of another. A prophet may foretell events, but his primary business is to speak forth God's message.

I. The Call of Elisha (1 Kings 19:19, 20).

1. His occupation. He seems to have been a well-to-do farmer, as there were twelve yoke of oxen in service when God called him. It was while engaged in his common duty that he received the divine call.

2. How he was called. Elijah cast his mantle upon him as he passed by.

II. The Call of Amos (Amos 7:10-15).

1. His occupation (v. 14). He was a herdsman and gatherer of sycamore fruit.

2. He was a prophet, not by succession nor trained in the prophetic schools.

3. God called him from his humble life to stand before the king. God is not straitened for helpers. He raises up workers from unexpected quarters, fills them with His Spirit and sends them forth.

III. The Call of Isaiah (Isa. 6:1-8).

1. Isaiah's vision of the Lord (vv. 1-4). No one's ministry will ever be fruitful until he has had a vision of the Lord.

(1) He saw the Lord on His throne (v. 1). The supreme need of a servant of God is to have a vision of Him, even to see Him on His throne. Just now, perhaps as never before, we need a vision of the enthroned Lord, as the awful darkness is settling down upon the world.

(2) He saw the Seraphim above (vv. 2, 3). Their standing indicated that they were in readiness to do His bidding. Their equipment with six wings showed their ability to execute the divine will. In the divine presence, one pair was needed to veil the head from the divine glory, one pair veiled the feet which had been soiled in contact with the world, while the third pair was suspended in midair waiting to depart on the divine errand. As they waited in His presence their continued cry was "Holy, holy, holy."

(3) He saw manifestations of majesty (v. 4). As the holy ones cried the very doorposts moved and the temple was filled with smoke. Smoke indicates the divine presence in anger (Ex. 19:8; 20:18).

2. Isaiah's conviction of sin (v. 6). When he got a vision of the holy God he was smitten with a sense of sin. The reason that men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile. He realized that he had sinned in speech, and if in speech, then in heart, therefore the cry of despair.

3. Isaiah cleansed from sin (vv. 6, 7). Having been convicted of and confessed his sin, a burning coal was sent from the altar which purged away his sin. His penitential guilt was forgiven and removed.

4. Isaiah's call (v. 8). His call from God did not come until after his cleansing. The purged soul is the soul ready for the Lord's service.

5. Isaiah's dedication (v. 8). As soon as he was cleansed he quickly responded for service. The one who has been sanctified and made meet for the Master's service readily responds to the call of God. He did not wait to see the end from the beginning, but freely gave himself up to that service.

6. Isaiah's commission (vv. 9-13). Because of the unpromising outlook, Isaiah shrank from his responsibility. He saw the people steeped in selfishness, but in spite of that the Lord assured him that their blindness and sin would not continue forever. The people would go on in sin, be taken into captivity, and the land left desolate; but as the oak, after shedding its leaves is for a time apparently lifeless, yet it retains its substance and so can manifest its life, the prophet is given to see under this figure that despite the deadness of the nation a remnant shall be saved. The holy seed of the kingdom shall come to fruitage in the last days.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. IRENE H. BALTHASER.

Mrs. Irene Hickie Balthaser, 77, widow of Jacob Balthaser, passed away at her home in Amanda, Monday night at 11 o'clock, of heart trouble, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Balthaser was a native of Fairfield county where she spent her entire life. She was twice married. Her first husband was Milton Solt, of near Marcy, and to this union were born two daughters, who survive, namely, Mrs. Hal Tatman, of Amanda, and Mrs. Will T. Simon, of Cottonwood, Idaho. She is also survived by another daughter, Mrs. Harry Griner, of this city. Improve Dairy Herd by Sires

High-Class Bull Is Essential if Improvement Is to Be Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every dairy herd needs a high-class bull at its head if the herd is to be improved, says the United States Department of Agriculture. For the dairyman who has a small herd and is short on finances, the cheapest and best way to obtain the use of first-class pure-bred bulls is through the work of a co-operative dairy-bull association.

Purpose of Organization. A bull association is a farmers' organization whose chief purpose is the breeding of better dairy cows through joint ownership, use, and systematic exchange of prepotent dairy bulls of high-producing ancestry. Improvement of the herd that may be expected through membership in such an organization is discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1532-F, "Dairy-Herd Improvement Through Co-operative Bull Associations," just issued by the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Through the system of transferring bulls from block to block, the bull association makes it impossible to keep the desirable bulls as long as they live or are fit for service. This enables a bull's daughters to come in milk and be tested while he is still owned by the association, and furnishes a means of determining which bulls are siring the high-producing daughters. The bulls that do not get satisfactory daughters are disposed of.

Study of Records. A study of the records of the daughters of bull-association bulls showed an average yearly mature production of 8,071 pounds of milk and 342 pounds of butterfat. In milk production the daughters excelled the dams by 13.5 per cent and in butterfat production by 14.4 per cent. Some of the sires are very outstanding. One sire, for instance, was mated with cows having an average yearly butterfat production of 347 pounds, yet his seven daughters from these cows excelled their dams by 57 per cent in milk production and 44 per cent in production of butterfat.

Much progress has been made by selecting bulls on the records of their dams and granddams. The most rapid progress cannot come until dairy sires are selected on the production records of their daughters.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Crude Pine Tar Smeared on Husking Mitts Helps

According to the Nebraska Agricultural college authorities, crude pine tar smeared on the husking mittens several times during the day will make them last longer as well as help the husker jerk the shucks. Excepting in wet weather, well tarred mitts should last about twice as long as those without tar. Enough thick tar to cover the thumbs and palms and then a layer of dirt to absorb the stickiness will make a surface on the mitts that will wear well and also be rough enough to pull the shucks quickly. A set of thumb stalls of heavy cotton flannel or light canvas are mighty handy if a mitt should rip or wear out more quickly than usual.

The handiest addition to a husker's wagon is a little box hooked on the rod of the front end gate in which he can keep his tar can, an extra pair of mitts and thumb stalls, and an extra husking hook or peg.

Cracked fingers and thumbs and chapped wrists can be healed by soaking them in hot water for about ten minutes and then rubbing them well with glycerin before going to bed each night.

Agricultural Facts

Barley is reasonably good as a cover crop, where a legume is not desired.

Shallow cultivation is best for row crops, as it does not injure their roots so much as deep stirring.

When planting seed potatoes be sure that it is good seed, free from diseases that will ruin crop and profit. Sugar-peas have edible pods which are broken up, cooked and served like string beans. They make a good addition to the garden.

Hill selection of potatoes is the only rational method of seed improvement, since it is based upon the performance of the individual hill.

If you see smutted plants in the cornfield, pull them out and burn them. This will prevent reinfestation of the following corn crop.

The main purposes of cultivating corn are to kill weeds and to conserve moisture. Deep cultivation is more wasteful of water than shallow plowing.

Whether seed are dead or alive can now be determined within 12 hours by scientific test, so that farmers and nurserymen may no longer lose large sums by planting bad seed.

DEPUTY ON THE JOB

Serves Warrant On Surgeon During Delicate Operation.

New York, Oct. 18.—(U.P.)—When told at Bellevue Hospital that Dr. John Miller was performing a delicate throat operation, Deputy Sheriff Leo Goldstein went right on up to the operating room to arrest the surgeon in a civil action brought by his wife.

Dr. Miller and attendants were horrified to see the germ-laden deputy peering interestedly at the anaesthetized patient. Goldstein was banished. But he borrowed an antiseptic jacket and returned to watch the operation. When Dr. Miller removed his rubber gloves Goldstein served the arrest order and the surgeon later was released in $2,580 bail.

Secretary Wilbur Praises Canned Foods

CURTIS D. WILBUR, Secretary of the Navy, in a recent magazine article, ascribes the high standard of health of the navy personnel to the healthful properties of canned foods.

"As to the relative merits of fresh-cooked foods and their canned equivalents," Secretary Wilbur says, "the experience of the Navy has been that there is no appreciable difference in their nutritional value."

Naval dieticians have established the facts, already conceded in the national newspaper press, that the vitamin value suffers not at all if the juices and fluids are not separated from the food except by evaporation, which leaves all of the food and vitamin value present and ready for use in a more digestible form than the ordinary cookery could present it.

Tons Used in Navy

The Naval Hospital Diet Kitchen

at San Diego has proved that properly canned vegetables are actually in a more perfect state for human consumption than fresh vegetables cooked in any of the ordinary styles used in the average kitchen.

While the Navy occasionally uses fresh foods, canned products hold an undeniable ascendancy in its kitchens.

For more than two years, the Navy Special Diet Kitchens at all the Naval Hospitals, as well as aboard the "U. S. S. Relief," have been utilizing Pacific Coast canned products. The attending doctors have expressed themselves as very much pleased with the diets provided. Such vegetables as corn, peas, tomatoes, asparagus, beans, turnips, squash and vegetable combinations are purchased in immense quantities, while fruit products of practically all Western growths are absorbed by the Navy to the extent of many tons each season.

Apple's High Qualities

The C. H. S. athletic field on South Court street is to be the scene of one of the best games of the high school grid season.

Friday, October 21, with the Pumpkin Show in full blast the Scarlet and Gray aggregation from Clarksburg comes to swell the crowds at our great fall festival and to engage the Roshon coached eleven of our own C. H. S. in a hard fought game of football.

Both teams are determined to win. Each has lost a game or two previous to this time and both will fight hard to make up for that loss. The Circleville boys are in fine shape except for a few minor injuries. They also have some corking new players worked up and are going to spring them on Clarksburg.

The starting lineup for Circleville will probably be the same as last week with Davis at full, Peters and Dumm at halves, Bales, quarter, Heeter and Goeller, ends, McCrady and Carpenter, tackles, Mogan and Grant, guards and Barnhill center. Pickens, Wallace and Rector will likely see service in the backfield and Liston, Mack and White on the line.

This is bound to be a fine game so let's not fail to see it while we are taking in the Pumpkin Show.

Secretary Wilbur Praises Canned Foods

CURTIS D. WILBUR, Secretary of the Navy, in a recent magazine article, ascribes the high standard of health of the navy personnel to the healthful properties of canned foods.

"As to the relative merits of fresh-cooked foods and their canned equivalents," Secretary Wilbur says, "the experience of the Navy has been that there is no appreciable difference in their nutritional value."

Naval dieticians have established the facts, already conceded in the national newspaper press, that the vitamin value suffers not at all if the juices and fluids are not separated from the food except by evaporation, which leaves all of the food and vitamin value present and ready for use in a more digestible form than the ordinary cookery could present it.

Tons Used in Navy

at San Diego has proved that properly canned vegetables are actually in a more perfect state for human consumption than fresh vegetables cooked in any of the ordinary styles used in the average kitchen.

While the Navy occasionally uses fresh foods, canned products hold an undeniable ascendancy in its kitchens.

For more than two years, the Navy Special Diet Kitchens at all the Naval Hospitals, as well as aboard the "U. S. S. Relief," have been utilizing Pacific Coast canned products. The attending doctors have expressed themselves as very much pleased with the diets provided. Such vegetables as corn, peas, tomatoes, asparagus, beans, turnips, squash and vegetable combinations are purchased in immense quantities, while fruit products of practically all Western growths are absorbed by the Navy to the extent of many tons each season.

Wonders of Science

After a thousand years, scientists who are making exhaustive researches into a genealogy of vitamins have discovered that ham and eggs are twins.

Apple's High Qualities

This apple is not only the product of your labor, but it holds the essence of the year and is in itself a thing of exquisite beauty.—L. H. Bailey.

C. H. S. TIGERS

MEET CLARKSBURG.

The C. H. S. athletic field on South Court street is to be the scene of one of the best games of the high school grid season.

Friday, October 21, with the Pumpkin Show in full blast the Scarlet and Gray aggregation from Clarksburg comes to swell the crowds at our great fall festival and to engage the Roshon coached eleven of our own C. H. S. in a hard fought game of football.

Both teams are determined to win. Each has lost a game or two previous to this time and both will fight hard to make up for that loss. The Circleville boys are in fine shape except for a few minor injuries. They also have some corking new players worked up and are going to spring them on Clarksburg.

The starting lineup for Circleville will probably be the same as last week with Davis at full, Peters and Dumm at halves, Bales, quarter, Heeter and Goeller, ends, McCrady and Carpenter, tackles, Mogan and Grant, guards and Barnhill center. Pickens, Wallace and Rector will likely see service in the backfield and Liston, Mack and White on the line.

This is bound to be a fine game so let's not fail to see it while we are taking in the Pumpkin Show.
